Cork, Ireland—November 14, 2011—GxP Systems, the leader in the provision of regulatory compliance consultancy and project management services, announces strategic organizational changes to support the projected growth of the company. Tactical changes in both the management team and board of directors will facilitate expansion, both globally and in Ireland.

- Linda Mellerick is appointed General Manager, with overall responsibility for managing GxP Systems; from overseeing day to day operations to defining the company's strategic direction. Formerly Director of Operations, Mellerick has a proven track record of strong operational leadership.
- Conor Wall is appointed to the board of directors to replace outgoing director and co-founder John Wall. Wall will focus on business expansion through strategic business initiatives.

"With the company at an optimum operational and financial position, and our recent expansion into the EU and U.S., GxP Systems is at a very exciting stage," says company founder John Wall. "I am very pleased to see such a strong management team and board of directors positioned to take the company to the next level."

"Since its inception in 1997, GxP Systems has steadily grown to become a world-class engineering consulting and project management firm offering services to top-tier multinational clients in regulated industries," says Conor Wall.
